AGENDA

8/19 2:00 P.M. Eastern

Applicant's representative would like to discuss the attached proposed amendments to claim 1.

As shown in Figure 5 of the application, the list 190 of email identifiers includes one for message 200 which is a collaboration email message. The author of the message is "Frank" as shown in the name column. When the message is modified (e.g., by a recipient responding), the email identifier for message 200 is changed in the way it is displayed to the user (i.e., to indicate the modification), but another email identifier is not added to list 190. (Specification, 27:22-28:11). Amended claim 1 is directed to this aspect of applicant's technology.

PROPOSED CLAIM AMENDMENT

1. One or more computer-readable media having stored thereon a plurality of instructions that, when executed by one or more processors of a computer, causes the one or more processors to perform acts including:

receiving collaborative electronic mail messages targeting one or more recipients, each collaborative electronic mail message having an author and including a feedback portion in which the one or more recipients can each add comments;

indicating, to a computing device corresponding to one or more of the recipients, ~~both the receipt existence of the a collaborative electronic mail messages and its author wherein an electronic mail system of the computing device displays an indication of the collaborative electronic mail message that includes the name of the author and when the collaborative electronic mail messages are modified; and~~

~~identifying~~indicating, to the computing device, that the ~~source of each collaborative electronic mail message, as well as any modifications to the collaborative electronic mail message, wherein the electronic mail system of the computing device changes the displayed indication of the collaborative electronic mail message that includes the name of the author to indicate that it has been modified~~is the ~~author of the collaborative electronic mail message.~~
